

The Importance of Physician Leadership in an Integrated Care System

GENERAL OVERVIEW

In a time of uncertainty about how health care is organized and delivered, one constant is the need for an increasing level of shared accountability among physicians, hospitals, and payers. Kaiser Permanente, with its eight self-governed medical groups, represents a model for how physician-led groups can effectively partner with health plans and hospitals to deliver 21st century medicine. Through this unique organizational structure and the practice of Permanente Medicine, Kaiser Permanente has continued to set the bar for innovation and quality. Permanente Medicine embodies person-centered, team-based, technology-enabled, culturally responsive, and evidence-based care.

THE 'PERMANENTE' IN KAISER PERMANENTE

Kaiser Permanente is composed of three entities united by a common mission: the Permanente Medical Groups (PMGs), Kaiser Foundation Health Plan, and Kaiser Foundation Hospitals, and their respective subsidiaries. The PMGs are eight physician-led multispecialty medical groups representing more than 22,000 physicians. They serve 12.2 million patients across the country in Hawaii, California, Oregon, Washington, Colorado, Georgia, Virginia, Maryland, and the District of Columbia.

This model allows Permanente physicians the ability to practice medicine free from interference and unencumbered by constraints typical of fee-for-service environments. Additionally, the medical groups have an individual and collective accountability for both the quality and cost of health care, and ethical stewardship of patients' health and health care resources. This unique structure results in some of the highest quality and patient satisfaction scores in the nation.

Physician Leadership and Development

Physician-led systems that actively promote and develop engaged physician leaders experience improved outcomes in areas such as clinical care, quality, and the business of medicine. Below are examples of the PMGs' work in these areas.

- Clinical Quality: Physicians collaborate with Kaiser Foundation Health Plan and Hospitals (KFHP/H) on the National Quality Strategy to identify and spread best practices throughout the organization.
- IT Systems Development and Deployment: Physicians have been critical to the development and deployment of Kaiser Permanente's electronic medical record (EMR) system, which is currently the largest privately run EMR in the world.
- Leadership in Business: The Medicine and Management program equips physician leaders with critical management skills. The Kaiser Permanente Executive Leadership Program, in partnership with Harvard Business School, provides PMG and KFHP/H leaders with skills and training in executive leadership, strategy, and business.
- Resource Stewardship: Joint PMG and KFHP/H committees help Kaiser Permanente ensure the best products and prices at every facility and monitor and evaluate technologies based on safety, efficacy, and comparative utility.
- Pharmacy: Physicians and pharmacists collaborate nationally to manage drug use, develop formularies, and improve quality and affordability. As a result, Permanente physicians appropriately prescribe generics at higher rates than the rest of the health care industry.
- Public Policy: Physicians engage in key health policy issues to promote and differentiate the integrated care delivery model nation- and worldwide. PMG leaders serve on influential national boards and commissions, like the United States Preventive Services Task Force.
